PART I OVERVIEW OF ENTERPRISE INFORMATION SYSTEMS	1
Chapter 1 What Are Enterprise Information Systems?	3
1.1 Chapter Introduction	3
1.2 History of Enterprise Information Systems	3
1.3 What Is an Enterprise?	4
1.4 What Is an Information System?	5
1.4.1 Roles of Information Systems in Business	6
1.5 The Components of Enterprise Information Systems	6
1.6 Management and Vision of Enterprise Information System	7
1.7 Setting Enterprise Information System Goals and Objectives	7
1.8 Chapter Summary	8
Chapter 2 Enterprise Information Systems in Practice	10
2.1 Chapter Introduction	10
2.2 Patterns of EIS Implementation	11
2.3 EIS Implementation as Managerial Intent	11
2.4 EIS within Business Cultural and Political Processes	12
2.5 EIS Planning and Structure	13
2.6 Challenges to EIS Implementation	14
2.7 Chapter Summary	15
Chapter 3 Enterprise Information Systems Outsourcing	17
3.1 Chapter Introduction	17
3.2 What Is Enterprise Information Systems Outsourcing?	17
3.2.1 Enterprise Information Systems Models	17
3.3 Different Enterprise Information Systems Contracts	18
3.4 Contractual Challenges in Enterprise Information Systems	19
3.4.1 Enterprise Information Systems Service Levels	19
3.4.2 Transferring of Assets in Enterprise Information Systems	20
3.4.3 Transferring of Staff in Enterprise Information Systems	20
3.4.4 Enterprise Information Systems Pricing and Payment Terms	20
3.4.5 Enterprise Information Systems Warranty and Liability	21
3.4.6 Enterprise Information Systems Dispute Resolution & Termination	21
3.4.7 Ownership of Intellectual Property Rights in Enterprise Information Systems	21
3.4.8 Information Security and Confidentiality in Enterprise Information Systems	22
3.4.9 Negotiation in Enterprise Information Systems	22
3.5 Enterprise Information Systems Outsourcing Evaluation	23
3.5.1 Management Requirements for Successful EIS Outsourcing	24

3.6 Mitigating Enterprise Information Systems Outsourcing Risks	25
3.6.1 Due Diligence	25
3.6.2 Internal Audit	25
3.6.3 Post-Contract Management	25
3.6.4 Regulation and Risk	26
3.7 Chapter Summary	26
PART II EIS ANALYSIS	31
Chapter 4 Analyzing Organization Information Systems Environment	33
4.1 Chapter Introduction	33
4.2 Critical Success Factors	33
4.3 Concept of Misfit	35
4.4 Knowledge Management	36
4.4.1 Knowledge Transfer Management	36
4.5 Chapter Summary	36
Chapter 5 Enterprise Information Systems Resources and Capacity	39
5.1 Chapter Introduction	39
5.2 New Standards for Customer Relationship	39
5.3 Customer Relationship in Enterprise Information System	40
5.4 Social Customer Relationship Management	40
5.4.1 Forecast for Social CRM	41
5.5 Transitioning Supply Chain Management	42
5.6 Chapter Summary	44
Chapter 6 Enterprise Information Systems and Stakeholders' Value	46
6.1 Chapter Introduction	46
6.2 Enterprise Information System and Shareholder Value	46
6.3 Shareholders Communications	47
6.4 Stakeholder Relationship Management	48
6.4.1 In-house Management	49
6.5 Chapter Summary	49
Chapter 7 Evaluation of Enterprise Information Systems' Value	51
7.1 Chapter Introduction	51
7.2 Value-creation from Enterprise Information System Models: Issues and Perspectives	51
7.3 Ontology for Enterprise Information System Models	53
7.4 Evaluating the Quality of Enterprise Information System	54
7.5 Chapter Summary	55
Chapter 8 Enterprise Information Systems and Accountability	57
8.1 Chapter Introduction	57
8.2 Identifying Risk and Controls in Management Processes	57
8.3 IT Governance and Management Controls	58
8.4 Chapter Summary	59

PART III EIS IMPLEMENTATION—CASE STUDIES	63
Chapter 9 Enterprise Information Systems for Knowledge Management	65
9.1 Introduction	65
9.1.1 Objectives	65
9.2 The Research	66
9.2.1 Research Questions	66
9.2.2 Research Context	67
9.2.3 Research Methodology	68
9.3 Literature Review	70
9.3.1 Knowledge	71
9.3.2 Knowledge Management	72
9.3.3 Knowledge Processes	73
9.3.4 Knowledge Management Systems	74
9.4 Managed Delivery Department	75
9.4.1 Localizing Knowledge	76
9.4.2 CV Registration	76
9.4.3 Making Sense of Enterprise Information System	76
9.4.4 Motivating People to Share Knowledge	77
9.4.5 Managing People Summary	78
9.5 Sales Department	78
9.5.1 Importance of the Social Network	79
9.5.2 Using Enterprise Information System	79
9.5.3 Searching for Sales	80
9.5.4 E-mailing	80
9.5.5 Motivational Effect	80
9.5.6 Making It Work	83
9.6 Distributed Software Engineering Department	83
9.6.1 Social Network vs. Enterprise Information System	84
9.6.2 Enterprise Information System Functionality	84
9.6.3 Managing Knowledge	85
9.6.4 Motivating People	85
9.6.5 Influencing The Direction	86
9.7 Data Analysis	87
9.7.1 Enterprise Information System at CIPPY Services Company	87
9.7.2 The Search Functionality	87
9.7.3 Collaboration	88
9.7.4 Portals	89
9.7.5 Business Processes and Forms	89
9.7.6 Content Management	90
9.7.7 Business Intelligence	90
9.7.8 Improving Enterprise Information System	90
9.7.9 Document/Knowledge Management Systems	92
9.7.10 Managing Business Knowledge	93
9.7.11 Stimulating Explicit Knowledge	94
9.7.12 Knowledge Localisation & Sharing in Other Applications	97
9.7.13 Human Creativity & Interactivity	98
9.8 Chapter Summary	99
9.8.1 Main Findings	99
9.8.2 Research Limitations	101
9.8.3 Future Research	102
9.8.4 Final Conclusions	103

Chapter 10 Enterprise Information Systems For Elderly Care	107
10.1 Chapter Introduction.....	107
10.1.1 Importance of Business Intelligence.....	107
10.1.2 Research Aims	108
10.1.3 Structure of the chapter.....	109
10.2 Literature Review.....	109
10.2.1 Knowledge Management-enabled Care	110
10.2.2 Inter-organization Cooperation.....	111
10.2.3 Understanding Clinical Decisions	111
10.3 Research Methodology	112
10.3.1 Research questions.....	113
10.4 Elderly Healthcare Management	113
10.4.1 Management Structure	114
10.4.2 Care Provision.....	116
10.5 Technology	117
10.5.1 Technology Implementation Trend	118
10.6 Enterprise Information System Infrastructure in Elderly Healthcare.....	120
10.7 Realism of Enterprise Information Systems	122
10.7.1 Management.....	122
10.7.2 Care Provision.....	123
10.7.3 Technology.....	124
10.8 Chapter Summary	125
10.8.1 Main Findings	126
10.8.2 Research Limitations.....	127
10.8.3 Summary of Enterprise Information System in Elderly Care.....	127
Chapter 11 Conclusions	130
11.1 Reasons for Enterprise Information Systems	130
11.2 Business Planning & Control with EIS.....	130
11.3 EIS and Decision Making.....	131
11.4 Elements of Enterprise Information System.....	131
11.5 Value Proposition	131
11.5.1 The Absolute Value of Enterprise Information Systems	131
11.5.2 The Relative Value	132
11.6 Major Challenges of EIS	133
11.6.1 Budgetary Issues.....	133
11.6.2 Constant Monitoring Issues.....	133
11.6.3 Chaos from System Malfunction	133
11.6.4 Systems Failure.....	133
11.6.5 Job Redundancies	134
11.7 Enterprise Information System Summarized	134
References.....	135
Glossary.....	145
